

At Projectize we often organise workshops and conferences on specific topics regarding the Project Management Practice. We feel they are very useful as a point of contact between our experience as consultants and your needs and experience.

They always are an occasion for mutual learning and exchange of views about hot topics that interest us all.

In workshops we tend to invite people of similar responsibilities from different organisations and sectors in order to encourage professional networking and to discuss the topic in such a way to capture all different points of view and reach, where possible and applicable, common solutions.

BENEFITS

- Gather best practices from the colleagues.
- Encourages problem solving on specific matters.
- Professional networking between peers.
